

Founder's Letter — Kingdom Finance Group

Dear Friends, Partners, and Community Leaders,

Welcome to Kingdom Finance Group — where finance meets purpose, stewardship, and community transformation.

When I launched this organization, my vision was simple yet profound: to reimagine how financial strategy can be a force for good — not simply for business performance, but for stronger families, healthier workplaces, ending homelessness and hunger in thriving communities.

SIMERP, our flagship program, delivered in partnership with expert compliance professionals, EHP, is designed to help employers capture overlooked payroll tax advantages, expand employee healthcare benefits with no out of pocket expenses, and reinvest savings into the areas that matter most. What started as an idea has become a movement of innovation, integrity, and intentional impact.

We measure success in lives changed and communities strengthened. Every time a nonprofit is able to invest more in its mission, every time a school district can stretch its tight budget further, and every time an employer enhances care for its workforce, we see tangible, positive results that reflect our deeper purpose: to serve with excellence and compassion to eradicate homelessness and food insecurity in America.

Our work is grounded in integrity, accountability, service, and empowerment. These principles guide how we engage with every client, partner and the communities. We seek to build long-term relationships rooted in trust, transparency, and mutual growth.

To all those who have walked alongside us and have believed in the possibility that finance can be a catalyst for ending homelessness and hunger: we say thank you. And to those we have yet to meet — those leading organizations, communities, and ministries — we stand ready to walk with you toward financial clarity, strategic impact, and shared prosperity.

With gratitude and commitment to purposeful stewardship,

Edwin Love
